

Glenn Hayden

Glenn Hayden has spent over 40 years in the performing arts, enjoying a career as a director, mentor, and arts leader. He started out as an actor after graduating from the prestigious WA Academy of Performing Arts / Edith Cowan University (1986), working in film, TV, but mostly live theatre with companies such as Deckchair Theatre, National Playhouse Theatre, and Melbourne Workers Theatre among others. He toured Australia multiple times before stepping into directing in the mid-'90s.

His directorial debut was Made in Spain at the 1993 Melbourne International Comedy Festival. By 1996, he had officially shifted his focus to directing. Since then, he's directed over 60 professional projects and productions, commissioned more than 20 new plays, and helped launch several arts organizations, including the Blue Room Theatre in Perth. He's also led three major community arts festivals and worked with some of Australia's most innovative theatre companies.

From 2004 to 2014, Glenn was the Artistic Director (later AD/CEO) of Adelaide's Urban Myth Theatre Company, guiding it to national and international recognition. It was during this time that he first traveled to India, taking his production of A Pirate's Ship to the Thespo Theatre Festival at Mumbai's Prithvi Theatre—an experience that sparked a lasting connection with the country's theatre scene.

Since 2014, Glenn has been a regular in India, directing professional English-language productions, mentoring emerging artists, and running corporate theatre training for companies like SHRM, Goa Institute of Management, Mahindra Finance, and Indian Oil. He's directed several Australian plays there, including Andrew Bovell's Speaking in Tongues for the TATA International Literature Festival, Matt Cameron's Ruby Moon, and Sheila Duncan's A Solitary Choice featuring Ramneeka Dhillon Lobo. He's also played a key role in supporting new theatre companies such as Peas and Carrots Theatre Co, Theatre Makers, and Chakravayuh Performing Arts, helping shape their direction and programming. His productions have been staged at Mumbai's top venues, including the Royal Opera House, Prithvi Theatre, and G5A among many others.

Glenn is an accomplished theatre trainer. He has developed and delivered many actor training programs and workshops over the past 40 years and has also mentored Theatre Designers, Production Managers and Stage Managers and Arts Managers.

Glenn is a passionate advocate for the arts. He's served on numerous boards and committees, advocating for better opportunities and conditions for artists. He's been an Actors' Representative for WA Actors Equity (MEAA), worked on funding panels for SA Arts and the Australia Council for the Arts, and helped develop mentorship programs with Country Arts WA. In 2021, he co-authored India's Live Performer's Guidelines for the Intimacy Collective, India.

Glenn continues to direct, mentor, and champion the performing arts, inspiring artists across Australia, India, and beyond.
